

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE.

THURSDAY EVENING FEBRUARY 7

A SOCIETY CHURCH.—There appeared in a Washington paper the other day the following advertisement:

WANTED BY A GENTLEMAN AND WIFE, old residents of Washington, half a pew or two seats in St. John's Episcopal Church; best of social references given.

This willingness to give social reference to secure the privilege of worshipping at St. John's P. E. Church calls to mind a story of President Lincoln. One day during the war a young officer called on him to secure an appointment in the army, and brought with him letters of recommendation signed by all the F. F. V.'s in the District of Columbia. There had been no application for office before President Lincoln so strongly supported by the aristocracy, and turning to the young man he told him that he would give him the appointment, and banded him back his papers.

"Don't you want to place the papers on file?" asked the office-seeker. "I supposed that was the custom."

"Yes, that is the custom," said President Lincoln, "but you had better take them with you as you might want to join St. John's Church."

This is the church into which unless one is endorsed by some "high fly," he or she is kept out to the cold till the service is half over. The "water of life" is not freely dispensed there, and religion gets a set back thereby. Pure religion is never exclusive.
